REDACTION EXPRESS

Easily manage compliance risk

CRAWFORD TECHNOLOGIES

OVERVIEW

Redaction Express by Crawford Technologies is a powerful family of tools that helps protect enterprises against the inadvertent and unintentional release of confidential information during the production of transactional documents like bills, statements and other customer correspondence. It adds redaction capabilities to the CrawfordTech suite of transform tools so that sensitive and private information is redacted automatically during the processing and production of high-volume documents. As a result, enterprises from all industries are able to manage compliance risk more cost effectively.

Redaction Express Advantages

- Automatic redaction of sensitive or confidential information.
- One-step redaction processing of high-volume documents.
- Enables redaction across print streams and document types.
- Outbound documents are automatically analyzed for potential breaches of confidentiality.
- Rules-based automation removes and destroys PCI and other confidential data completely.
- Easy integration with other CrawfordTech solutions and current workflows.

How it Works

Redaction Express enables enterprises to manage compliance risk more cost effectively. It adds redaction capabilities to the CrawfordTech suite of transform tools so that identified and specific confidential information is removed during the processing of high-volume documents without additional steps.

All businesses and organizations need to send and exchange documents of varying types, but each interaction carries with it the risk of inadvertent disclosure of confidential information. Both external and internal communications need to flow freely in order to support workflow and processes, yet not every destination or recipient has a 'need to know' or have the authorization to view sensitive or confidential information. Redaction Express was built from the ground up to meet the needs of even the most challenging industry and regulatory constraints for information privacy. It is the tool of choice when there is a need to redact information from print streams, PDFs and composed documents in high-volume production environments.

What does Redaction Express Do?

Redaction Express enables enterprises to automatically remove confidential information as documents are being prepared for viewing or distribution.

- Protect sensitive and confidential data from parties and recipients without authorization.
- Lower privacy risk and improve regulatory compliance.
- Include production printing in privacy and confidentiality strategies and initiatives.
- Automatically scan and analyze documents for confidential information.
- Ensure all redacted information is irretrievable.
- Processing efficiency ensures virtually no impact to throughput and productivity.
- All this while setting the industryerformance benchmarks for speed, accuracy and flexibility.
